

Woman Who Is a Power at the National Capital

Mrs. Charles Russell Davis.—A Deep Student of Politics and a Woman of Broad Views—The Daughter of Aaron Haven, Intimate Friend and Warm Supporter of Stephen A. Douglas—She Comes of an Old Revolutionary Family, Which Came to the Middle West from Boston—Her Mother Was a First Cousin of Grover Cleveland.

By Margaret B. Downing.

Minnesota is much more than a state, it is a power, and its power is being felt in the nation's capital. Mrs. Charles Russell Davis, a woman of broad views and a deep student of politics, is one of the most powerful women in the nation. She is the daughter of Aaron Haven, an intimate friend and warm supporter of Stephen A. Douglas. She comes of an old revolutionary family, which came to the middle west from Boston. Her mother was a first cousin of Grover Cleveland.

Diplomats of England and Germany Want Children to Become Engaged

The diplomats of England and Germany want their children to become engaged. This is a common theme in the social circles of these nations, where the children of diplomats are often seen as potential matches for the children of other diplomats.

The Secret of Packing a Trunk

The secret of packing a trunk is a matter of great importance. It is not enough to simply throw things into a trunk; one must know how to pack them properly. This involves knowing what to pack, how to pack it, and how to secure it. The secret is to pack the trunk so that it is easy to open and close, and so that the contents are protected from damage.

good tart flavor and cut them in small pieces without coring or paring. Prepare a mint water by packing mint leaves in a cup until it is full. Wash them clean, chop fine, and cover with a pint of hot water, allowing them to steep for ten minutes. Strain and put the liquid over the apples in a saucepan, and let them simmer in the water until they are perfectly tender. After which strain through a fine sieve and add a cupful of sugar and the juice of two lemons. Have ready a half box of gelatin which has been soaked in water, and add it to the hot apple juice, before straining the whole through a cheese cloth. The jelly may be strained into a shallow dish to be about an inch and a half thick, and then cut in even cubes to garnish cold meats, or it may be poured into very small individual cups like egg holders, and turned out in these forms around the meat, sprigs of parsley being used with it.
